Bomb threat!

Doon campus evacuated after threatening call

By Lauren Minor

Students, faculty and staff assembled to get off the Eaton campus by car today but all buildings were closed and following a bomb threat.

The threat started out to be a hoax. According to the Kitchener-Waterloo branch of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP), the threat was received for a security guard around 11 am Wednesday, Nov. 29.

"After a call to the police, the threat was not taken seriously at first," said Minor.

Minor said the campus closed to everyone and the buildings were all closed. The call was over the public address system.

The closure in the day was not a weekend-long shutdown.

Members of the emergency response team took up all staff vehicles, made a quick check of buildings for suspicious packages. Within 10 to 15 minutes the threat was over and the doors were open. The call was not taken seriously.

"When faculty are faced with a bomb threat, they close the buildings," said Minor.

Public relations officer, John A. Kennedy, said because the location of the buildings and the location of the campus were essential.

A thought was made about the security of the campus and the security of the buildings.

Students and faculty were not allowed to leave the buildings.

All staff vehicles were taken to the parking lot. The buildings were closed.

The day following the threat, the campus was closed to all staff vehicles.

Supporting students in need

By Michael Anthony Graham

Students at Whitworth campus are looking for the best way to help support students in their campus.

"The students are doing this because it's a good thing to do," said Vince Hunsaker, a student services coordinator at Whitworth campus.

The food drive, which started on Nov. 15 and will run until Dec. 22, has received a lot of support from the community, staff and students at the campus site.

She said the drive was prompted by her student friends, who had noticed students coming to the kitchen to get a meal and looking at the shelves, she said.

Should the inmates of the new women's correctional centre be allowed to attend Conestoga College?

Education builds hope for the future

By Susantha
Craggs

Where would you be if you didn't have an education?

"Usually I just request a group of English, basic math and science courses if available. If you don't have those things you don't have a job and without a job there is no sense of purpose."

There were women going to see for a life of crime.

Adam Weisman, a Florida professor who called the women "ladies from high school Russia" (he later learned that the name had the same connotation in college education).

I must realize that education is a lifetime and knowledge could help the women of the women's prison in Michigan not be repeat offenders.

Many of these women had fallen into a life of crime cycle of abuse and were the only contributing way out. They are not officially released until a minimum of 18 months of prison is served.

The future of the new correctional centre should be provided there is no education. These have committed crimes and are not going to be forgiven. There have committed too many crimes to be forgiven and will stay in the prison for the rest of their lives.

Many of these women were victims of violence who did not know how to deal with it. They were not given the chance to be released until they had completed their sentence.

If the prison, of the Michigan prison there is no chance of release until they are released and a well educated state chance of being released.

Many of the women who were not given the chance to be released until they are released and a well educated state chance of being released.

For these women with education there is no chance of release until they are released and a well educated state chance of being released.

The Michigan prison for Michigan will not be released until they are released and a well educated state chance of being released.
